Bachelor of Business Administration in Management Concentration in Operations Management Department of Management

Why Operations Management is Important

Operations managers blend their qualitative “people skills” and quantitative business skills to efficiently and effectively create services and products to meet the needs of customers. They connect their organizations to global suppliers and customers across ever more complex value chains. Operations managers translate organizational strategies into appropriate operations tactics, to deliver value to customers through high-quality, low-cost, responsive, and flexible solutions. Key skills include tools and knowledge about quality management, lean systems, change management, project management, and supply-chain management,

Students Are Our First Priority

Faculty members at FHSU genuinely care about your success and your future, and they will work with you and for you to make sure that you accomplish your goals. Small class sizes, taught by experienced faculty and industry professionals, allow you to receive individual attention. Outside of the classroom, faculty members provide one-on-one advising for classes, graduation, careers, and life after your time at FHSU.

Get Involved

Operations Management students compete in relevant events in Collegiate DECA, and are given the opportunity to bring home national and international recognition for their successes. These events and competitions allow our students to travel nationwide and network with industry professionals.

Career Opportunities

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the job growth projection for general operations managers in the U.S. is 7.1% through 2024, with management analyst jobs at 13.6% growth. Careers in Operations Management continue to be stable and steadily increasing in demand in the US, and these careers also offer challenging opportunities worldwide as global value chains become more complex.

Alumni

FHSU BBA Management alumni work in operations management roles across the globe. As service operations and manufacturing jobs grow in Kansas, our graduates will continue to be among the most desired in the state, region, and beyond.
